

Kindergarten's

Classroom Connection

October 8th, 2015

The Kindergarteners had a wonderful time Tuesday with their mentors. Ms. Berkley read a story about how the star got into the center of apples. Then we cut apples horizontally, found the stars and made apple trees full of printed apples with our mentor(s). The interaction between the mentee and mentors was priceless. Everyone seems comfortable with their buddy and was so excited to see them.

In reading workshop we have begun to add words to our "word wall." The children are getting to know many simple sight words and reading books that reinforce our new words. We have also begun to read in groups and we continue to read one on one with your child.

In math this week we have been exploring the world of patterns. The kindergarteners are now looking for patterns around them as well as creating patterns of their own.
