

Kindergarten Classroom Connection

April 24, 2018

It was so nice to see each of you over the last two weeks for Parent-Teacher conferences. Cate and I have enjoyed marveling over how far the kindergarteners have come both individually and as a group. We are so proud of them. They are beginning to look and act more like first graders every day.

Yesterday was the eighth annual Academy Award of books. We had a wonderful day of celebration. This year's focus was Mythology. As a class we have been reading and enjoying many myths as well as dinosaur fiction stories. Kindergarten's winning book for Best Mythological picture book was Mount Olympus Basketball, by Kevin O'Malley, And Best "Dinosaur" book went to The Mine-o-Saur, by Sudipta Bardhan-Quallen.

This Friday, April 27th, after school from 3:00 to 4:00 is the annual Seventh grade "Minute to Win It" Carnival. There is a suggested $5 donation. If you are planning allow your child to go I would strongly suggest that you or another adult accompany them. The games are fun and there is usually a good crowd, but it can be overwhelming.

Upcoming Events:

- This Friday, "Minute to Win It" Carnival, 3:00 - 4:00
- Friday, May 11 Grandparents/Special Friends Day
- Saturday, May 12th Auction night
