Turn Markers

Into Energy!

Dear Parents,

I'm excited to tell you about a very special program I'm coordinating at our school in conjunction with Crayola. It's called Crayola ColorCycle – an amazing program devised to repurpose used markers rather than sending them to landfills!

The ColorCycle program has repurposed more than 70 tons of expended markers in the United States and Canada since 2013, and uses the most advanced plastic conversion technologies available today to make wax compounds for asphalt and roofing shingles as well as to generate electricity that can be used to heat homes, cook food, and power vehicles.

All around Hill School, students and teachers will be collecting used markers that are ready to be discarded. Please help support our efforts by sending your children in with any used markers you may have around the house- even non-Crayola brands! Highlighters and dry erase markers can also be included. Drop-off boxes will be located around the school (Front Desk, Art Room and Lower School Workroom) for your child to deposit the markers.

Thank you in advance for participating! With the help of parents like you across the country, the Crayola ColorCycle program can continue to keep tons of plastic out of landfills each year. Remember, don't throw out that used marker—ColorCycle it!

Sincerely,
Anne Walker

SECOND CHAPTER BOOKS INVITES YOU TO ...

AN EVENING
WITH AUTHOR
NORMAN FINE

FEBRUARY
1ST

4 TO 7 PM

"On the eve of WWII, late in 1939, a top-secret gadget—the resonant cavity magnetron—was invented by two British scientists. Small enough to be held in the palm of a man's hand, it was brought to the U.S. and showed to American scientists and military leaders. Immediately, the Radiation Lab was set up at MIT to help hard-pressed Britain develop airborne microwave radars, without which we would not have been able to launch D-Day on June 6, 1944. "
